A RIZE church planter is a person who is called and equipped to start and lead a new church that is culturally relevant and missional. They are passionate about reaching people who are far from God and building a community of believers who are committed to making a difference in the world.

Here is a profile of a RIZE church planter:

Has a strong personal relationship with Jesus Christ. RIZE church planters are first and foremost disciples of Jesus Christ. They are committed to following Him and making Him known to others.

Is passionate about reaching people who are far from God. RIZE church planters have a heart for the lost and the unchurched. They are committed to finding creative ways to reach people with the gospel and build relationships with them.

Is a gifted leader and communicator. RIZE church planters are able to cast vision, recruit and develop a team, and communicate effectively to both the church and the community.

Is culturally relevant and missional. RIZE church planters are sensitive to the cultural context they are planting in and are committed to starting churches that are relevant to their community. They are also passionate about mission work and want to see their church make a difference in the world.

In addition to these general qualities, RIZE church planters are also expected to have the following specific skills and abilities:

Ability to reach and develop Millennials. RIZE is particularly focused on reaching and discipling Millennials and Gen Z. Church planters who are able to connect with and build relationships with this generation are highly valued.

Ability to reach young families and established families. RIZE church planters also want to reach and minister to families of all ages. Church planters who have a heart for families and are able to create a welcoming and engaging environment for them are highly valued.

Exceptional recruiter/gatherer. Church planters need to be able to recruit and develop a team of people to help them start and lead their church. Church planters who are able to cast vision and build relationships with others are highly valued.

Ability to operationalize a vision (or find someone who can). Church planters need to be able to develop and implement a plan for their church. Church planters who are able to think strategically and are able to execute their plans are highly valued.
